

THE 77 PERCENT

South Africa's Land Question Heats Up

The 77 Percent dives into land distribution in Africa. South Africa's new Expropriation Law is making waves. Critics say it's an unconstitutional land grab, while the government and its supporters call it a long-overdue move to fix past racial and economic injustices. So, what's going on, and where do young South Africans stand? Can a new generation break the deadlock and find common ground on this divisive historic issue?

When it Comes to Love, What Makes Gen Z Tick?

Are young people still looking for the one – for their big love? If so, where are they looking? What's important to them in a relationship? Euromaxx explores these questions in the new series "Love & Dating in Europe." Each episode focuses on one aspect of the topic – from first dates, to different partnership models, to love and money. Young Europeans share their ideas about love, marriage, and polyamorous relationships.

World White Hate

Racist and far-right networks are coalescing around the world. Driven by white supremacy ideology, they spread their propaganda via digital platforms. And they carry out terrorist attacks on minorities and democratic institutions. Right-wing extremist soldiers, veterans and mercenaries pose a particular threat. The documentary World White Hate highlights the parallels and intersections between the various right-wing extremist groups. And explores the following questions: How can this hatred be countered? How can right-wing terror be stopped? What can be done to protect democratic society and state institutions from right-wing terror?

The Srebrenica Tape

"The worst thing is not knowing what's happened to a loved one." Alisa is eight years old when the Bosnian War begins and she's separated from her parents. She's over 40 when she retraces the footsteps of her father, Sejfo, who recorded messages on videotape for her from an increasingly isolated Srebrenica so that she wouldn't forget him. This unique document was made in 1995, shortly before more than 8,000 Muslim men and boys were murdered in the Bosnian village and surrounding area. Unlike Alisa's mother, who managed to escape to the forests, there's been no trace of Sejfo ever since. But his video is a powerful declaration of love – for his daughter, and life itself. As Alisa completes her journey, can she finally say goodbye to her father? The documentary The Srebrenica Tape – From Dad, for Alisa.

ARTS UNVEILED

200 Years of Berlin's Museum Island

It's probably the most famous island in the German capital: The Museum Island has existed in the middle of the River Spree, at the heart of Berlin, for 200 years. It's the cultural core of the city and home to five museums. But why was this center built on an island, of all places? One reason: in the early 19th century, European colonial powers were competing with one another to establish influential art collections in special locations. After all, Britain had its magnificent British Museum and France the Louvre. Berlin's self-proclaimed German protectors of "world cultural heritage" collected spectacular artefacts from all over the world to be exhibited in the capital – including the Nefertiti Bust, the Pergamon Altar, and the Ishtar Gate. As Museum Island marks its 200th anniversary, Berlin also grapples with its colonial past. Find out more in Arts Unveiled.

Old Enmities, New Friendships

The political situation in East Asia is currently in rapid flux. Former wartime enemies Japan and South Korea are strengthening ties and seeking to close ranks with Taiwan. The three countries are also arming themselves to the teeth. Is a new alliance emerging in the world's most dangerous and economically important region, with Japan, South Korea and Taiwan standing alongside the United States against China? How reliable is the US as a partner under President Trump? Can peace in the region be secured through deterrence? Will recent developments turn East Asia into a powder keg ready to explode at any time? What impact would an escalation of the conflict over Taiwan or between North and South Korea have on peace and prosperity in the rest of the world? These questions are explored in the documentary Old Enmities, New Friendships.

BUSINESS BEYOND

Europe's Largest Economy Fights for its Future

Manufacturing across Germany continues to face tough times. But is the country deindustrializing? That's the question on Business Beyond, which combs through the latest numbers to present a fuller picture of the current state of German industry, from steel to machinery and chemicals. Coming into focus are the "Hannover Messe" and fertilizer producer SKW Piesteritz in Wittenberg, where manager Carsten Franzke complains that his costs have tripled, and he can't recover them in the market. "That explains quite simply why we're in the situation we're in," Franzke said.
